Subject: Bankstone Stormwater

Macland Rd.

Kevin,

I wanted to follow up on our conversation regarding the stormwater draining to the Macland / Bankstone intersection. Based on preliminary engineering there is approximately 10 acres draining to the intersection. The existing stormwater conveyance system drains under Macland Road flowing to the north and eventually into the flood plain located west of the intersection. There is currently no conveyance system that could adequately handle the addition of the stormwater along the south side of Macland Road. Regarding the proposed condition, our goal from an design perspective, is to reduce the peak flows for that basin to at or below what is currently flowing from the site today. This will done by either retention in the existing lake or diversion of a portion of the existing basin into a proposed detention facility on site.

I hope this clarifies our intent from an engineering perspective, but please call if you have any questions.

Thanks,
